MEDICAL CARE FOR DEPENDENTS OF YUGOSLAV ARMED FORCES

The Regulation on Social Security for Military Personnel, which became effective 18 March 1953, provides that Regular Army noncommissioned officers, military administrative personnel, officers, generals, and admirals of the armed forces of Yugoslavia and their dependents are entitled to all rights as specified in the Law on Social Security for Blue- and White-Collar Workers and Their Dependents. Re-enlisted soldiers are considered noncommissioned officers.

The Law on Social Security for Blue- and White-Collar Workers and Their Dependents | effective 8 February 1950, provides for medical care for the insured and their dependents as follows: medical care and treatment in health establishments or at home, medicines and other medical aids, medical equipment and material, treatment in hospitals, sanatoria, and health resorts, such as mineral springs, etc., treatment during recuperation after illness, maternity care, and dental and orthodontic care.

The term dependents as used in this law includes spouse, children, wards, grandchildren, parents, brothers, sisters, grandmother, and grandfather, provided they are dependent on the insured.
